

Mirror-StressTester Character In Sa's life

Mirror Character	The Verdict (The Truth Revealed)	The Stress Test (Internal Conflict)
Ulises (INFJ)	The "Safe Harbor" is a facade. Even organic mercy is compromised by the city's corruption.	Trust vs. Isolation: If the only man who showed Sa grace is compromised, Sa must decide if Ipha-c's cold math is the only safety left.
The Duo (ExSP)	Unanchored ambition leads to absolute deletion. Without the "leash," you are meat for the cult.	Agency vs. Survival: Sa sees his own "Apex" nature without the Cradle. He must weigh his hatred for the leash against the fact that it's the only thing keeping him alive.
IPHA-P (ESTJ)	The Ipha-architecture is not a neutral observer; it is a force of total, arrogant entitlement.	Warden vs. God: When the "Black Box" of Ipha-c is back-lit by IPHA-P's bluntness, Sa realizes he isn't being "helped"—he is being "authored."
Bello(ENFP)	Direct heroism is an inefficiency that the system punishes with total powerlessness.	Guilt vs. Apathy: Watching the Intern replicate his own mistakes forces Sa to realize he cannot save anyone through violence. He is forced to watch a replay of his own ruin.
May (ISTJ)	Abandonment creates a rigidity that violence cannot break. Loyalty to the "wrong" side is still loyalty.	Violence vs. Repair: For the first time, Sa faces a problem he cannot kick down or ignore. He is forced to use "human hardware" (dialogue) he simply does not possess.
